DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

This office action is in response to amendment filed on 7/18/2006. Of the original claims 1-20, claims 5-9, 14, 16, and 18 have been amended. Claims 21-30 have been added.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-14, 16-20, 27, 28, and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Padawer et al. (US 7,046,994).

A. Regarding claims 1-4, 6, 16, 17, 19, 20, and 27, Padawer et al. discloses a system and method for associating a contact with a call ID (title). In the scope of the invention, a call match ID system obtains the telephone number (identifying a network identifier) that is obtained from an incoming (receiving a communication from a communication network) or outgoing call (column 1, lines 45-56). A call match engine then queries a contact information database to determine if any contacts include the call ID associated with the calling phone number (comparing the network identifier with contact information) (column 4, lines 36-37). If there is no match, then the telephone number is displayed (displaying the network identifier) as received by the call ID (column 7, lines 36-37). If a match is found, then a name associated with the telephone number received by the caller ID is displayed (displaying a name field) (figure 6). When two matches occur, the display may show the two matched contacts in a call-related information area or display of the mobile device (column 7, lines 14-16). This display is capable of showing, in addition to the name and number of the matched contact, a company name, thumbnail picture, and a type for the phone number and column 1, lines 64-67). In an instance when more than one match occurs for a particular phone number and two contact records comprise the same value for a company name, the invention of Padawer et al. performs the same function as set forth in the claim of "displaying a field that is common to the identified contact records", since both records will appear with a common company name.

B. Regarding claims 5, 7, 18, and 28, Padawer et al. shows the display of a first and last name and a work field indicator (figure 6).

C. Regarding claims 8-9, the limitations are rejected as applied to claim 1 and 7.

D. Regarding claim 10, in the case where multiple matches occur for a telephone number as stated in regards to claim 1, in an instance when more than one match occurs for a particular phone number and two contact records comprise the same value for a last name, the invention of Padawer et al. performs the same function as set forth in the claim of "displaying a field that is common to the identified contact records", since both records will appear with a common last name.

Art Unit: 2617

E. Regarding claims 11-13 and 30, the invention of Padawer et al. is directed to a mobile computing device (column 2, line 50).

F. Regarding claim 14, Padawer et al. discloses that a sufficient match that is considered to be a candidate contact has a match that is 7 out of 10 numbers (column 5, lines 42-51).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 29 and 15 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

4. Claims 21-26 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-30 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
